

Kadugli House Steeton

is the base for Diocesan Administration, and is a well used resource for parishes, groups, committees, away-days, interviews and staff training, including those beyond the Church.

It is located on the boundary between Bradford and Craven in modern premises with up to date facilities. It can be used by organisations during working hours, evenings and at weekends. We welcome visitors between 9am and 5pm and we particularly wish to invite people to join us at 10am for daily prayers.

Parking is not available in Elmsley Street, which is reserved for local residents, but there are 35 car parking spaces in the grounds, with 2 spaces available nearer to the building, for those who are less able.

A video projector, overhead projector, screen, television and video player and flip chart can all be made available on request.

Both meeting rooms are fitted with an induction loop system for the benefit of those with hearing aids.

The office accommodation can be closed off and the rest of the building made available.

The Board Room (large meeting room) has French windows opening onto a terrace.

This room can seat 30 people around tables, in a variety of different formats.

Theatre style it will take 60 fairly comfortably.

The Committee Room (small meeting room) seats 12 people round a 'board room' table. This is a more formal meeting room.

Both rooms have facilities to use video projectors OHPs, whiteboards and flip charts.

Tea and coffee making facilities, a microwave, dishwasher and fridge are available, along with cutlery, crockery etc for about 40 people.

There are large gardens at the back and approximately 12 garden chairs.
